SUPERVISION OVER IMPORTATION OF LIVE STOCK

Government Maintains Strict Scrutiny Over Animals Brought into Country for Breeding Purposes.

Washington, July 17.—In case you are a breeder of live stock and desire to import a number of animals for breeding purposes or possibly a reared bull, boar or ram for the improvement of your herd or flock, will be well to know that the federal government maintains a strict supervision over the entry of such animals into this country. The same one scrutiny is exercised over deer, elk or other pet animals, which foreign travelers sometimes wish to bring home as pets or as mementos of their travels.

In either case it will be advisable to defer making a purchase or engaging space for the animals on a ship until you have ascertained what requirements govern importations of such animals. The act of congress, the secretary of agriculture is given authority to make such regulations and take such measures as he may deem proper to prevent the introduction or dissemination of any contagious, infectious or communicable disease of animals from a foreign country into the United States.

Under such authority, regulations of the department of agriculture require that any person contemplating importation of cattle, sheep, and other ruminants, and swine, from any part of the world except North America, must first obtain from the secretary of agriculture two permits. One of these permits upon presentation to the American consul at the port of shipment will entitle the importer to a clearance; the other will assure, subject to inspection, their reception and entry subject to observation in quarantine at port of entry on the date prescribed in this regulation or at any time during three weeks immediately following. This law allows for any unavoidable delay, through bad weather or other cause, in the steamship schedule.

Three animal quarantine stations are provided on the Atlantic seaboard for the ports of Boston, New York and Baltimore for the detention of imported stock. The animals included in this regulation are cattle, sheep, goats, and other ruminants, swine, and colts, shepherds or sheep dogs, and animals from parts of the world other than North America are subject to this quarantine regulation. If a disease develops while the animals are detained at the quarantine station the owner is permitted to remove them to their ultimate destination in this country.

All animals of the classes named and which are subject to both infection and quarantine must be entered through these ports. Cattle from Great Britain, Ireland, and the Channel Islands are held in quarantine for a period of thirty days. If from other countries, except those of North America, the quarantine period is ninety days, counting from date of shipment. Horses and swine from any part of the world, except North America, are subject to a quarantine of fifteen days.

cases, a number of which are unknown in this country, any of which, if introduced, would result in great loss to our live stock industry. Persons interested may obtain the latest regulations (B. A. I. Order 269, effective July 1, 1914), on application to the chief of the bureau of animal industry, department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Albuquerque Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are weak. Weak kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Weak kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, suggest weak kidneys and warn you of the danger of dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease. In that case Doan's Kidney Pills have been endorsed by thousands. Here is a statement of a grateful user:

Mrs. E. E. Hood, eleven miles from Moriarty, N. M., says: "I have heard enough said about Doan's Kidney Pills by one of my relatives to convince me that this remedy is of great value. Several years ago when I was visiting this person, he told me he had used Doan's Kidney Pills. His trouble was pain in the back and other distressing ailments, caused by his kidneys failing to do their work as they should. Doan's Kidney Pills benefited him so much that I know they are a fine kidney medicine."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the name that Mrs. Hood had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Richmond, Va., July 13.—Richmond today became a city of refuge for deserters from the navy by order of Mayor Ainslie, who told Lieutenant H. E. Parsons, U. S. N., by Justice Chas. Justice Crutchfield ordered three alleged deserters released.
